Declaration on CRITICAL RAW MATERIALS

At LEMO Group, our commitment to sustainability, ethical sourcing, and supply chain transparency is a cornerstone of our business principles. In this spirit, we wish to provide you with clear information regarding the use of Critical Raw Materials (CRMs) in our products.

What Are Critical Raw Materials?

CRMs are raw materials of high economic importance for the EU. They include Strategic Raw Materials (SRMs) that have a higher risk of supply disruption and forecasted demand growth. They are essential components in many modern technologies, but vital to renewables, e-mobility and aerospace industry.

As per EU Regulation 2024/1252 of 11 April 2024 establishing a framework for ensuring a secure and sustainable supply of critical raw materials, there are 17 SRMs in Annex I that are a subset of 34 CRMs listed under Annex II.

Our Position on Critical Raw Materials

We have conducted a diligent review of our materials and the information provided by our suppliers to determine the composition of our articles. Based on this comprehensive analysis and the legislation applicable at the time this declaration is issued, we confirm that LEMO products may contain 13 CRMs as per the table above in various concentrations. To the best of our knowledge, the rest are not intentionally added or used in the manufacturing of our products.

Our dedication to responsible manufacturing is unwavering. We continue to work closely with our partners to ensure the transparency and integrity of our supply chain. We believe this commitment not only results in superior products but also aligns with the shared values of our customers.

For any further inquiries or requests for clarification regarding this declaration, please do not hesitate to contact us at: environmentcompliance@lemo.com.
